SPOTTING SHARKS FROM THE SKY

BEACHES in parts of Australia will be patrolled by drones to keep swimmers safe from shark attacks after a successful trial in New South Wales.

Shark attacks off New South Wales beaches fell to just four last year, half the number of previous years, and much lower than 2015 when 14 people were attacked. The trial was the largest drone operation conducted in Australia, with more than 8,000 flights by drones along 1,300 miles of beach.

The drones spotted sharks swimming close to shore and triggered an early warning alarm to allow swimmers time to get safely out of the water, keeping both swimmers and sharks out of danger. State authorities have announced that drone flights will become a permanent part of its plans to survey sharks. Other measures include tagging large sharks, which will trigger an alert if they swim too close to beaches.

Some of the largest species of shark in the world can be found in Australian waters and, so far, 500 large sharks have been tagged.

In other shark news, a team of marine scientists have found two new species of sixgill sawsharks in the Western Indian Ocean. The sixgill sawsharks were discovered during an investigation into fisheries. The species are rarely seen and experts say it shows how much there is still to discover about our oceans.
